Dear Karin and all my friends at Mastercare,

I can not tell you enough how much I appreciate my Mastercare Inversion Traction table. As you know I purchased the high capacity, super strong one.

I've had it almost 3 years at this point, and I must admit it's been a lifesaver for me personally, as well as for my patients. I let patients use it and direct some of them to it, and they report great results. A few of them report phenomenal experiences. The Mastercare table not only helps the spinal problems that you think it would, but I even had a 40 year old man with chronic severe daily migraine headaches, experience major reduction in frequency and intensity, simply by using the Mastercare table one time a week for a couple of months. Wonderful !!!

I have even found a few patients who are rather savvy and adept at doing things for themselves who can set the table up for themselves and initiate their treatment time on it, even though we still make sure it's under supervision and a watchful eye.

Karin I want to thank you specifically for your magnificent instruction in the use of this table and the theory behind it because people are obviously doing themselves a significant disservice by using the poorly thought out machines offered at sporting good stores, on TV and on the internet. I've even had people tell me they picked up a used inversion table at a garage sale, and then quickly learn that they got what they paid for. While these folks have very good intentions as to what they are trying to accomplish for themselves, they don't realize the damage that they do to themselves by getting an inexpensive piece of junk and then go straight to hanging themselves upside down at 180° to vertical.

I repeat what I stated to the chiropractor looking at the same unit I bought from you, at the FCA convention this past fall, "If you don't buy that unit in the next five minutes, I will ." I was serious as I would have no trouble using or placing another one in service.

Your products are fantastic, I can not recommend you folks highly enough and I hope to see you many times in the future.

Very truly yours,

Dr. Mabbett K. ( Tad ) Reckord DC
